COUNTRY Housery  COUNTRY Housery  COUNTRY Housery  COUNTRY Housery  SUBJECT Engarian Chesteel Research in Progress in 1949  NO OF PAGES 1  PLACE ACQUIRED  ATE OF DIFFORMATION  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.	COUNTRY Sungary  SUBJECT Hungarian Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  PLACE ACQUIRED  DATE OF DEPORTANTION  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THIS IS UNEVALUATED			ATION CONFIDENT	'IAL		-
COUNTRY hungary  SUBJECT Rungarian Chemical Research in Progress in 1949 NO OF PAGES 1  PLACE  ACQUIRED  OATE  ACQUIRED  SUPPLEMENT TO  REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  The nature of this creates as a checked in the REPORT. The nature of this research bear to utilitie natural page as a checked in the Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1940 with the research assistants, and buttage, methane and ethanse as starting sounds, prinary interest was to make benseen and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical Industry in Rungary.  January Interest was to knake benseen and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Rungary.  January Interest was the Rungary and the Rungary And Authority The Purpose of this Contor was a more fully develop and utilities the heavite deposits of Rungary which are among the largest in the world. Nork had begun on a beautite processing plant user Kessard, was done at RUNGS, substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Beyer Process.  Divesturi development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RUNGS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms  but by and large it was handled by individual firms  but by and large it was handled by individual firms  but by and large it was handled by individual firms  but by and large it was handled by individual firms  but by and large it was handled by individual firms  but by and large it was handled by individual firms  but by and large it was handled by indi	COUNTRY Hungary  SUBJECT Rungarian Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  PLACE ACQUIRED  DATE ACQUIRED  DATE ACQUIRED  DATE ACQUIRED  DATE ACQUIRED  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THIS IS UNEVALU		CE	NTRAL INTELLIGEN	CE AGENCY	REPORT
CLASSIFICATION CORFIDENTIAL  SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT S.  NO. OF ENCLS.  LUNCHERION  SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.  The nature of this receaser was undertaken in 1946 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Bungarian University of Technical Science [Increature referred to as RETURN]. The nature of this receaser was to undertaken as Increased of the professor Joseph Wargha, Dean of the Chanical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor and revearch in 1948 of the nake different chemicals from these gases, prinary interest was to make bensence and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing as self-surficient chemical industry in Hungary  [580 The Chemical Week, May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Bungarian Plant Tissalok, Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was consor fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Eurgary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant heav Konardon.  Substantially increase the output. March 1949, production was under vay and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Department was done at REUTS, but by and large it was pandled by individual firms government that the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Department of textiles and dyes.  ORM -	Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  This is unevaluated in the time of this research was to this research was to compare the project. The began the research is 1940 with the research sessions in charge of the project. The began the research is 1940 with the research sessions in the project. The began the research is 1940 with the research sessions in the project. The began the research is 1940 with the research sessions in the project was directed toward development as elf-sufficient philosophy of the entire project was directed toward development as elf-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  The This is unevaluated the session of the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was beaded by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the beautite deposits of Hungary which are senong the largest in the vorld. Work had begun on a bauvite processing plant was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was bandled by individual firms  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was bandled by individual firms  Server and -		INFO	RMATION	REPORT	CD NO.
CLASSIFICATION CORFIDENTIAL  SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT S.  NO. OF ENCLS. ANY	Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  This is unevaluated in the time of this research was to this research was to compare the project. The began the research is 1940 with the research sessions in charge of the project. The began the research is 1940 with the research sessions in the project. The began the research is 1940 with the research sessions in the project. The began the research is 1940 with the research sessions in the project was directed toward development as elf-sufficient philosophy of the entire project was directed toward development as elf-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  The This is unevaluated the session of the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was beaded by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the beautite deposits of Hungary which are senong the largest in the vorld. Work had begun on a bauvite processing plant was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was bandled by individual firms  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was bandled by individual firms  Server and -		COUNTRY But to my	en e		DATE DISTR & Sept 53
CLASSIFICATION CORFIDENTIAL  SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  The nature of this research vas to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph vargae, been of the Chamical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1946 with ten research sassistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing as self-swiftcient chemical industry in Rungary.  Issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Rungarian Plant Tissalok.  A Aluminum Institute Research Center was enstablished in 1948 at RHUNS. It was beaded by Professor Bels Janeij of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the beautite deposite of Rungary with are second the largest in the world. Work had begun on a shaux to processing plant was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyesturf development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUNS, but by and large it was bandled by individual Tims proversents.  Develutif development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUNS, but by and large it was bandled by individual Tims proversents.  A CLASSIFICATION CORFIDENTIAL	Chemical Research in Progress in 1940  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.  THE REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.  THE REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.  THE REPORT NO.  THE REPORT NO.  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THE REPORT NO.			laconwold in Process	oon in Joko	2
Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  1. Petrochemical research was undertaken in 1948 and 1949 in Budappet at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science (hereafter referred to as RHTMS). The nature of this research was to utilize natural just as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargan, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1946 with ten research seast to utilize natural just as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargan, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1946 with ten research seaststants.  Starting Douints, gases, primary interest was to make bensene and ethicals from these gases, primary interest was to make bensene and ethicals from these gases, primary interest was to make bensene and ethicals. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical Industry in Hungary.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at HUMES. It was headed by Professor Dela Langi of the Engineering Department. Professor Lengis taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the burite deposits of Hungary which are smoong the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant were Komanon; substantially increase the output.  Narch 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Destury development was intensified in 1946. Part of the research was done at HEMTS, but by a having the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION  THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMA			escaren in riogi	ess III 1949	THO OF THOLE
Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science Augustator referred to as REUTS). The nature of this research was to utilize natural use as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research seems as a starting polarity, was in charge of the project. He began the research is a 1948 with ten research seems as a starting polarity in the control of the chemical Engineering philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See The Chemical Meek", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.]  2. An Alumium Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at HEUTS. It was beaded by Professor Bela Lancii of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancii taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the beautite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begue on a baunt to processing plant mear Remarca.  [In March 1949, production was under vay and the plant was using the Bayer Process.]  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). This was done because the textile Industry had not suffered serious physical setback wind the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  Fetrochemical research was undertaken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Bungarian University of Technical Science According to the Remain of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Bungary interest was to make bencene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953]  issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Flant Tiszalok.]  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at HUMBS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are smolig the largest in the world. Work had begun on a buxite processing plant users formary and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at HUMBS, but by and large it was bandled by individual firms  [Severmment]  controlled). this was done because the textile industry had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		PLACE ACQUIRED	e .		NO. OF ENCLS.
Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  1. Petrochemical research was undertaken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science (hereafter veferred to as REUTS). The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a cheatest gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Seasons, primary interest was to make boncene and ethicane as starting Doints.    Starting Doints	Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  Petrochemical research was undertaken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Bechnical Science Dereafter veferred to as RHUNES. The mature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in Charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sasisfatris.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  gases;  primary interest was to make benceme and ethiplene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUNS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposite of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxit te processing plant user Kanarons, which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxit te processing plant user Kanarons.  Description of the Region of the Center was done to the Poula Substantially increase the output.  Amen 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Descriptions of the Sadone because the textile industry had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.				,	SUPPLEMENT TO
Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  1. Petrochemical research was undertaken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science Justice and the Royal Research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Boints.  starting Boi	Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  Petrochemical research was undorteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as REUTE]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research assistance.  starting points, starting points, starting points at tempted to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make bennea and etholene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward develoding as self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tissalok.]  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at KHUNS. It was headed by Professor Bala Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was established in 1948 or KHUNS. It was headed by Professor Bola Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was established in 1948 or KHUNS. It was headed by Professor Bola Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the beautite deposits of Hungary with are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant was mong the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant was landed by individual firms government controlled). his was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback wring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.					REPORT NO.
Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  1. Fetrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as RHUTS]. In nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the professors primary interest was to make benneas and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953]  1. Issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Flant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Langli of the Engineering Department. Professor Langli taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Rungary which are among the largest in the world. Mork had begun on a bauxite processing plant lear Kamarom.  [March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.]  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1946. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms to the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1946. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms to the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1946. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms to the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1946. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms.	Chemical Research in Progress in 1949  Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science /hereafter referred to as RUME/. The mature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.  Starting Boints.  Starting Boints.  Starting Boints.  Starting Boints.  Financy interest was to make bonzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tizzalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUMS. It was headed by Professor Bola Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the beautic deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms  serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		DATE OF INFORMATION			مد
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as REUTS. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    such butane, methane and ethane as starting points.	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		This Decument Combains imposmetion applicated the main of the United States, within the mismink of fittle le- and 184. Cf. the U.S. Cook, as aminoed, 112 Thansmiss	SECTIONS TOS SICH IN MITE.	THIS IS UN	NEVALUATED INFORMATION
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as RHUMS]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    Succeeding the project was defended to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.    See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		ESTION OF THE CONTEST TO ON SECTION OF AN UNAUTHORITY PROMISETED BY LAN. THE REPORTUCTION OF THIS FURN TO	PENAIDITED.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science /hereafter referred to as RHUMS/. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research assistants.    Succeeding the project was described to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.    See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as RHUMS]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    Succeeding the project was defended to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.    See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as RHUMS]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    Succeeding the project was defended to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.    See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RHUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    See	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RHUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    See	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as REUTS. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    such butane, methane and ethane as starting points.	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as REUTS. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    such butane, methane and ethane as starting points.	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical remearch was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as RHUMS]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    Succeeding the project was defended to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.    See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.]    An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUMS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the beautite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Kemaron.   hat would substantially increase the output.   In March 1949, production was under way and   the plant was using the Bayer Process.    Dyesturf development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUMS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms   government   this was done because the textile industry had not suffered   serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical remearch was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as RHUES]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    See	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical remearch was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as RHUES]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    See	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical remearch was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as RHUES]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    See	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as REUTS]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    Succeeding the project was described to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.    See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tlazalok.]  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the beautite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Kawaron.   hat   would substantially increase the output.   in   March 1949, production was under way and   the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms   this was done because the textile industry had not suffered   serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.    CLASSIFICATION COMPIDENTIAL	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.
1. Petrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science [hereafter referred to as REUTS]. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.    Succeeding the project was described by the content of the chemical sections of the content of the conten	Detrochemical research was underteken in 1948 and 1949 in Budapest at the Royal Hungarian University of Technical Science flereafter referred to as RRUES. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research sesistants.  starting Doints.  starting Doints.  attempted to make different chemicals from these gases.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		Chamian   Bassansh in Duamen	in Toko			1
University of Technical Science \( \text{Derendter} \) referred to as REUTS. The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research assistants.    Starting Doints	University of Technical Science (hereafter referred to as REUTE). The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.		chemical Research in Progress	ın 1949			1
University of Technical Science   hereafter referred to as REUTS . The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research assistants.    Starting Doints   attempted to make different chemicals from these gases   primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.   See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.	University of Technical Science (hereafter referred to as REUTE). The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.						i
University of Technical Science   hereafter referred to as REUTS . The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research assistants.    Starting Doints   attempted to make different chemicals from these gases   primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.   See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.	University of Technical Science (hereafter referred to as REUTE). The nature of this research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research assistants.	l.	Petrochemical research was unde	erteken in 1948 a	and 1949 in Bud:	apest at the Royal Hungarian research was to utilize natural gas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material.  Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research assistants.  starting points.  starting points.  starting points.  primary interest was to make banzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUNS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  shat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUNS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback suring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	research was to utilize natural mas as a chemical gas for reduction of raw material. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research assistants.  starting points.  starting points.  starting points.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953] Issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Kemarom.  bauxite processing plant hear Kemarom.  substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.			a Tracentter water Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research is 1948 with ten research is stants.  Starting Doints.  Starting Doint	Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the Chemical Engineering Department, was in charge of the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research ascistants.  starting points.  starting points.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Langi of the Engineering Department. Professor Langi taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are smong the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Kumarom.  substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		University of Technical Science		erred to as RHU	187. The nature of this	į
the project. He began the research is 1946 with ten research seristants.  used butane, methane and ethane as starting points.  starting points.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  /See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	the project. He began the research in 1948 with ten research assistants.  used butane, methane and ethane as starting points.  primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Kraarom.  hat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback during the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		University of Technical Science	l use on a showle	erred to as RHU	187. The nature of this	į
starting points.  starting points.  gases, primary interest was to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.]  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.    hat   would substantially increase the output.   In   March 1949, production was under way and   the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms   government   controlled).   this was done because the textile industry had not suffered   serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.    CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	starting points.  starting points.  primary interest was to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Ianeji of the Engineering Department. Professor Ianeji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Kamarom.  Shat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyesturf development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUIS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  This was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural	l gas as a chemic	cal gas for redu	IS). The nature of this uction of raw material.
starting points.  gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953]  Issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953]  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953  [See "The Chemical Week", May or Jun	starting points.  gases, primary interest was to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Langij of the Engineering Department. Professor Langij taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.		research was to utilize natura. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean	l gas as a chemic of the Chemical I	cal gas for reducing Dep	TS7. The nature of this uction of raw material. artment, was in charge of
starting points.  gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  /See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953  issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	starting points.  gases, primary interest was to make different chemicals from these gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Langij of the Engineering Department. Professor Langij taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.		research was to utilize natura. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean	l gas as a chemic of the Chemical I	cal gas for reducing needs to the contract of	TS). The nature of this uction of raw material. artment, was in charge of assistants.
gases, primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953] [Issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.]  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom. Shat would substantially increase the output.  [March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.]  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled. This was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	primary interest was to make benzene and ethylene. The underlying philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at HHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natura. Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean	l gas as a chemic of the Chemical I	cal gas for reducing needs to the contract of	TS). The nature of this uction of raw material. artment, was in charge of assistants.
philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953] Issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Rungary which are smong the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Kamarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	philosophy of the entire project was directed toward developing a self-sufficient chemical industry in Hungary.  [See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953]  issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.]  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha , Dean of the project. He began the rese	l gas as a chemic of the Chemical I earch in 1948 wit	cal gas for red Engineering Depo th ten research used butane, me	TS. The nature of this uction of raw material. artment, was in charge of assistants.
chemical industry in Hungary.  /See "The Chemical Week", May or June 1953 issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Kumarom.  substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  Shat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the reseastarting points.	l gas as a chemic of the Chemical i earch in 1948 wit attempted	cal gas for reducing negroinments of the case of the c	TS. The nature of this uction of raw material. artment, was in charge of assistants. ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Kamarom.  Shat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  In this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points. gases, primary interest	l gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make ber	cal gas for reducing Depth ten research used butane, mo to make difference and ethyle	TS. The nature of this uction of raw material. artment, was in charge of assistants. ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying issue for information on Petrochemistry at the Hungarian Plant Tiszalok.  2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are smong the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Kemarom.  Shat would substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and  the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms  controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire project.	l gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make ber	cal gas for reducing Depth ten research used butane, mo to make difference and ethyle	TS. The nature of this uction of raw material. artment, was in charge of assistants. ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying
2. An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUTS. It was headed by Professor Bela Lancji of the Engineering Department. Professor Lancji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom. That would substantially increase the output. The plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). This was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback wring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	An Aluminum Institute Research Center was established in 1948 at RHUIS. It was headed by Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Kunarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  This was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire project.	l gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to	cal gas for reducing need to research used butane, mo to make difference and ethylotoward developing	The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying mg a self-sufficient
Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  This was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are smong the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  This was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.	l gas as a chemical is earch in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to	cal gas for reducing need to the research used butane, mu to make difference and ethylotoward developing.	TET. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying mg a self-sufficient  cal Week". May or June 1953
Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	Professor Bela Laneji of the Engineering Department. Professor Laneji taught electrochemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are smong the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  This was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.	l gas as a chemical is earch in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to	cal gas for reducing need to the research used butane, mu to make difference and ethylotoward developing.	TET. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying mg a self-sufficient  cal Week". May or June 1953
chemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	chemistry. The purpose of this Center was to more fully develop and utilize the bauxite deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant near Kemarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  issue for information on Petrocol	l gas as a chemical is earch in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the	cal gas for reducing managements of the research used butane, muto make difference and ethylotoward developing.  See "The Chemic Hungarian Plant	The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying mg a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 t Tiszalok.
deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	deposits of Hungary which are among the largest in the world. Work had begun on a bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  Substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	2.	research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research	l gas as a chemical is earch in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the Center was estated.	cal gas for reducing managements of the research used butane, muto make difference and ethylotoward developing the The Chemic Hungarian Plantolished in 1948	TET. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying ma a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 t Tiszalok.
bauxite processing plant hear Komarom.  substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and  the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms  controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	bauxite processing plant hear Kemarom.  substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	2.	research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Entire Prof	l gas as a chemical is carch in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the Center was established to the content was est	cal gas for reducing managements and ethyle to make difference and ethyle toward developing. The Chemic Hungarian Plant colished in 1948 ment. Professor	TEY. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by or Laneji taught electro-substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	substantially increase the output.  March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled).  this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	2.	research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire project chemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this	l gas as a chemical is earch in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the Center was established in Center was to make the content was to make the content was established in Center was to make the content was t	cal gas for reducing many control of the research used butane, more to make difference and ethyletoward developing the The Chemic Thungarian Plantolished in 1948 ment. Professor fully developed the core fully developed the core fully developed the chemic to the core fully developed the chemical statement.	TET. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ent. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 t Tiszalok. The transfer that the self-sufficient or and utilize the bauxite
March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	2.	research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are seen the professor of Hungary which are seen the professor of Hungary which are seen the purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are seen the professor of the professor of Hungary which are seen the professor of the professor of Hungary which are seen the professor of the professor	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make bent was directed to chemistry at the Center was established to center was to make the conter was to make the content of	cal gas for reducing many control of the research used butane, more to make difference and ethyletoward developing the The Chemic Thungarian Plantolished in 1948 ment. Professor fully developed the core fully developed the core fully developed the chemic to the core fully developed the chemical statement.	TET. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ent. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 t Tiszalok. The transfit taught electrotop and utilize the bauxite Work had begun on a
March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback juring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	March 1949, production was under way and the plant was using the Bayer Process.  Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	2.	research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are seen the professor of Hungary which are seen the professor of Hungary which are seen the purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are seen the professor of the professor of Hungary which are seen the professor of the professor of Hungary which are seen the professor of the professor	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make bent was directed to chemistry at the Center was established to center was to make the conter was to make the content of	cal gas for reducing many control of the research used butane, more to make difference and ethyletoward developing the The Chemic Thungarian Plantolished in 1948 ment. Professor fully developed the core fully developed the core fully developed the chemic to the core fully developed the chemical statement.	TET. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ent. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 t Tiszalok. The transfit taught electrotop and utilize the bauxite Work had begun on a
3. Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at RHUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	Dyestuff development was intensified in 1948. Part of the research was done at REUTS, but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	2.	research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire project chemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this chemistry. The purpose of this chemistry of the posits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output.	attempted twas to make beret was directed to center was established to center was established to center was established to center was to manning the largest (maarom.	cal gas for reducing many control of the research used butane, more to make difference and ethyletoward developing the The Chemic Thungarian Plantolished in 1948 ment. Professor fully developed the core fully developed the core fully developed the chemic to the core fully developed the chemical statement.	TET. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The inchemicals from these ent chemicals from these ent. The underlying mg a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 t Tiszalok. The transfit taught electrotop and utilize the bauxite work had begun on a that would
but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.	2.	research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire project chemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this chemistry. The purpose of this chemistry of the posits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output.	attempted twas to make beret was directed to center was established to center was established to center was established to center was to manning the largest (maarom.	cal gas for reducing managements and ethylocome and	TS. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ethate and themicals from these ene. The underlying mg a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 t Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by or Laneji taught electrolop and utilize the bauxite work had begun on a that would in
but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	but by and large it was handled by individual firms government controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under	gas as a chemical is earch in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the chemistry at the Center was established to center was to make the conter was to make the conter was to make the largest conter.	cal gas for reducing managements and butane, mused butane, mused butane, mused and ethyle toward developing. See "The Chemic Hungarian Plantolished in 1948 ment. Professione fully developing the world.	TEY. The nature of this action of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying ma a self-sufficient  cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by or Laneji taught electrotop and utilize the bauxite work had begun on a that would sing the Bayer Process.
controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	controlled). this was done because the textile industry had not suffered serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the outperformance of the production was under Dyestuff development was intensity.	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the Center was established in 1948.	cal gas for reducing managements and butane, mused butane, mused butane, mused and ethyle toward developing. See "The Chemic Hungarian Plantolished in 1948 ment. Professione fully developing the world.	TEY. The nature of this action of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying ma a self-sufficient  cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by or Laneji taught electrotop and utilize the bauxite work had begun on a that would sing the Bayer Process.
serious physical setback turing the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.  - end -  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	serious physical setback buring the war, plus the fact that Hungary had always produced a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the outperformance of the production was under Dyestuff development was intensity.	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the Center was established in 1948.	cal gas for reducing managements and butane, mused butane, mused butane, mused and ethyle toward developing. See "The Chemic Hungarian Plantolished in 1948 ment. Professione fully developing the world.	TEY. The nature of this action of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ent chemicals from these ene. The underlying ma a self-sufficient  cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok./  at RHUTS. It was headed by or Laneji taught electrolop and utilize the bauxite Work had begun on a hat would in sing the Bayer Process.
a great amount of textiles and dyes.  • end -  CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	a great amount of textiles and dyes.		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under Dyestuff development was intensituted by and large it was handled	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to themistry at the Center was established in 1948. It is individual in the Center way and the content was to make the content way and the content way are content way and the content way are content way and the content way are content way and the content way and the content way are content way are content way and the content way are content way and the content way are content way are content way are content way are content way and the content way are content way and the content way are content way are content way and the content way are content way are content way are content	cal gas for reducing managements and butane, me to make difference and ethylotoward developing the management of the Chemic Hungarian Plantolished in 1948 ment. Professione fully developing the world.	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants.  ethane and ethane as ethane and ethane and ethane as ethane. The underlying as a self-sufficient  at RHUTS. It was headed by or Laneji taught electrolop and utilize the bauxite work had begun on a that would in sing the Bayer Process.  search was done at RHUTS, government CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL	end -		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under Dyestuff development was intensity by and large it was handled controlled).	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make benefit was directed to chemistry at the chemistry at the chemistry at the conter was established in the largest conter way and the largest conter way and the largest content was the largest content way and the largest content was the largest content way and the largest content was the largest content was the largest content was the largest content way and the largest content was the largest content way and the largest content was the largest con	cal gas for reducing languages in the research used butane, muto make different and ethylotoward developing the Chemic Hungarian Plant plished in 1948 ment. Professioner fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was use	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered	The second secon
CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL			research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under Dyestuff development was intensity by and large it was handled controlled). this was serious physical setback juring	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make bent was directed to chemistry at the chemistry at th	cal gas for reducing languages in the research used butane, muto make different and ethylotoward developing the Chemic Hungarian Plant plished in 1948 ment. Professioner fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was use	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered
CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL			research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under Dyestuff development was intensity by and large it was handled controlled). this was serious physical setback juring	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make bent was directed to chemistry at the chemistry at th	cal gas for reducing languages in the research used butane, muto make different and ethylotoward developing the Chemic Hungarian Plant plished in 1948 ment. Professioner fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was use	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered	The second secon
CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL			research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under Dyestuff development was intensity by and large it was handled controlled). this was serious physical setback juring	attempted the chemical is arch in 1948 with attempted the twas to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the chemistry a	cal gas for reducing languages in the research used butane, muto make different and ethylotoward developing the Chemic Hungarian Plant plished in 1948 ment. Professioner fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was use	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered
CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL			research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under Dyestuff development was intensity by and large it was handled controlled). this was serious physical setback juring	attempted the chemical is arch in 1948 with attempted the twas to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the chemistry a	cal gas for reducing languages in the research used butane, muto make different and ethylotoward developing the Chemic Hungarian Plant plished in 1948 ment. Professioner fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was use	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered	The second of th
	CLASSIFICATION CONFIDENTIAL		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under the but by and large it was handled controlled). this was serious physical setback juring a great amount of textiles and	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to center was established in the largest content was to make the largest content was and the largest content way and the largest content was a content way and the largest content was a content way and the largest content was to make the largest content was the la	cal gas for reducing languages in the research used butane, muto make different and ethylotoward developing the Chemic Hungarian Plant plished in 1948 ment. Professioner fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was use	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered
ARMY X C/OS X DISTRIBUTION			research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the outperformation was under the professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the outperformance of the professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the outperformance of the professor but by and large it was handled controlled).  Liste was a professor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this substantially increase the outperformance in the professor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this expensive processor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are substantially increase the outperformance in the processor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are substantially increase the outperformance in the professor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are substantially increase the outperformance in the professor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry.	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the chemistry	cal gas for reducing languages in the research used butane, muto make different and ethylotoward developing the Chemic Hungarian Plant plished in 1948 ment. Professioner fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was use	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered
	ARMY X C/OS X DISTRIBUTION		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the outperformation was under the professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the outperformance of the professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the outperformance of the professor but by and large it was handled controlled).  Liste was a professor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this substantially increase the outperformance in the professor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this expensive processor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are substantially increase the outperformance in the processor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are substantially increase the outperformance in the professor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are substantially increase the outperformance in the professor bela Laneji of the Enchemistry.	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make beret was directed to the chemistry at the chemistry	cal gas for reducing languages in the research used butane, muto make different and ethylotoward developing the Chemic Hungarian Plant plished in 1948 ment. Professioner fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was used the plant was used to the plant was use	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered ARIGAN		research was to utilize natural Professor Joseph Vargha, Dean of the project. He began the research starting points.  gases, primary interest philosophy of the entire projecthemical industry in Hungary.  Issue for information on Petrod An Aluminum Institute Research Professor Bela Laneji of the Enchemistry. The purpose of this deposits of Hungary which are a bauxite processing plant hear is substantially increase the output March 1949, production was under but by and large it was handled controlled). this was serious physical setback juring a great amount of textiles and	gas as a chemical in the Chemical in 1948 with attempted to was to make bent was directed to chemistry at the chemistry at th	cal gas for reducing langineering Depth ten research used butane, musche difference and ethylotoward developing See "The Chemic Hungarian Plant blished in 1948 ment. Professore fully developing the plant was used to the plant was used to the research the fact that Hungarian Plant was used to the plant was u	TEV. The nature of this uction of raw material.  artment, was in charge of assistants. The underlying as a self-sufficient cal Week", May or June 1953 to Tiszalok.  at RHUTS. It was headed by the Tiszalok. The underlying at the bauxite work had begun on a sing the Bayer Process.  Search was done at RHUTS, government astry had not suffered	